This workshop is suitable for: Nurses and other Health Care Professionals.

The Dermatology Update for Primary Care day is particularly relevant for GPs and primary care nurses (and pharmacists) who wish to update knowledge on dermatology care, including evidence-based practice and guidance. You will see the programme moves you through from knowledge and guidance/guidelines updates to patient and practical aspects to then seeing how you can incorporate this knowledge into practice at a local level. The new skills you will learn will enhance patient care and may reduce secondary care referrals.

The importance of dermatology care and promotion of skin health is essential in general practice. The Primary Care Dermatology Society states that 10-15% of the primary care workload involves dermatology and that many common skin conditions are managed entirely within the practice setting. This workload continues to increase as on-going changes in funding and the NHS structure move more patient care into the community. Chronic skin conditions have a psychological impact on life and healthy living. Supporting and helping patients with self-management is often the key to treatment success.

Learning Outcomes

By the end of the day, delegates should:

- Have updated evidence-based knowledge and be aware of current guidance (guidelines) for acne, eczema and psoriasis
- Improve prescribing, practical knowledge and clinical confidence on the range of treatment and management options for acne, eczema and psoriasis
- Improve knowledge and recognition of benign skin lesions and skin cancer, with an introduction to practical dermoscopy
