This workshop is suitable for: practice managers, IT leads, Data Protection Officers and GPs.

Introduction

Incidents can happen in spite of all reasonable steps to avoid/prevent them... in fact there's around 2,000 data breaches reported by health organisations each year (that's 5-6 per day! ...that are reported) ...but when is an 'incident' a 'data breach' and what should you do? This workshop will equip you with the knowledge that you need to identify and handle an incident or data breach in a practical and effective way.

Agenda/topics covered:

- When is an incident a data breach?
- What should we do if we have a data breach?
- When do we need to report a data breach? How do we report a data breach?
- Questions/answers... Should we get insurance?

Learning objectives:

- Ensure staff can recognise a 'data breach'
- Ensure the right processes are in place to manage a data breach
- Know how and when to report a data breach
